DISCUSSIONS AT COUNCIL SESSION

Town Council Hears Complaints, Adjusts Ordinances and Transacts Much Business at its Regular Monthly Session.

Untangling the knots of the new ordinances, regarding fakirs and the prohibition of merchants displaying goods in front of their stores, occupied a large portion of the regular June session of the town council on Tuesday evening.

George W. Bushl,the Carlisle street fresh fruit and vegetable dealer, addressed council at length on the hardship which he would suffer if made to remove his stands from the pavement and gutter. Mr. Bushl pointed out that he deals in goods that required quick sales and that to make such sales his fruit and vegetables had to be displayed.

"I admit I may be somewhat of a nuisance" he said, "but as much of a nuisance as you find me. Just that much of a convenience to the town I am. I've a line of business the town must have, you can't do without it. Selling the quantity of goods I handle, I can afford to come to you chapter then you would otherwise have to pay. Of course, you wouldn't starve if I left the town but you would pay more for your goods."

The question of Mr. Bushl's having to pay fakir's license of $25 each for every week he sold separate was also taken up. Mr. Bushl objected especially to the fact that such license was made out to one individual and that, under the provisions of the ordinance, no one else could use it.

"I have sold out my whole business in the name of Carson Bumbaugh" said Mr. Bushl. "Suppose he drives on the road, wants to borrow and gets killed. There goes my twenty five. If I take out a license for myself to peddle, and have to go to Baltimore to buy fruit I cannot be in two places at once. I have to get my fruits will decay and I am out money."

J. M. Wolford, Esq., also appeared before council to ask that the ordinance regarding the display of goods on the streets in front of places of business be not enforced. He represented R. A. Myers, C. A. Blocher, N. L. Minker, P. W. Stahle and Mrs. Sarah Ambach, all of whom that these parties were all willing to pay the $25 fakirs' license and that, at the time of the anniversary, they would continue their stands if found necessary for the convenience of pedestrians.

Council informed Mr. Williams that it was not their intention to enforce this ordinance against the crowds made the removal of their stands unnecessary and that, they would be given notice. Mr. Bushl was informed that the ordinance regarding fakirs' license would be construed liberally in a case such as his and council stated that, if he took out a $25 license for every wagon he operates, he would meet the intent of the ordinance—the "not transferable" feature and the measure being to guard against crooked work by outsiders.

Meat and bread wagons are not to be taxed as, it is argued, they sell to the householders and do not cry their wares. Ice cream wagons and all wagons peddling machines will be charged for at the regular $25 rate.

Rev. W. B. Hoover appeared in behalf of a petition, signed by Jacob A. Kapner and himself asking for a light on West Catherine avenue. Council was favorable to granting the request and that an avenue was not borough property and that they could not legally do so.

Rev. J. R. Baker, Howard Hartley and C. A. Blocher appeared for St. Aloysius church asking a concrete crossing at Stratton street from the Wolf property to the church corner. A long argument followed and no action was taken though it is possible that the one at the corner on the first block of York street will be extended so as to take in the intersection and that may afford some relief.

Market Master Miller's ordure was placed at $15 a month during the market season.

It was reported that Dr. Diehl had attended to the condition of the road on Baltimore street caused by digging at his property and action of council directing the borough attorney to take legal steps in the matter was rescinded.

TOWN LOSES BIG CAVALRY CAMP

Too Many Fences in this Section Say War Department Officials, and Brigade of Cavalry will Maneuver in Virginia.

Gettysburg loses the big cavalry camp announced for this place during the months of July and August. The camp will be established instead in Winchester, Virginia, and the 2500 troops will spend sixty days there in manoevers and instruction.

The decision to give up Gettysburg as the place for the camp in 1913 to have been influenced largely by the fact that the camp in this section is not adapted for cavalry manoevers. There are entirely too many small town farms with numerous fences to allow any bodies of troops to move rapidly and satisfactorily and a more extended country with less obstacles to contend with was determined upon. The fact that a camp site was to be had here, fully equipped with water, light and other facilities weighted strongly in favor of Gettysburg but the manoevering ground proposition was too big a handicap.

Secretary of War Garrison heard the claims of town in twelve states before finally designating Winchester as the place for the cavalry camp. A territory three miles east of Winchester containing 1500 acres of land was offered and, after a thorough inspection and comparison of this with other sites suggested, it was found advisable to use the Virginia ground.

The announcement will doubtless cause an a bit of bad news to Gettysburg's hotel men who were plenty of excitement here, at all events, with the students camp and other things arranged for the summer months.

HOME TALENT VAUDEVILLE

Amateurs Give Entertainment Deserving Large House. Many Enjoyable Sketches. Xavier Dramatic Society Show.

One of the smallest audiences on record greeted one of the best home talent shows ever given in Xavier Hall when a delightful vaudeville entertainment was produced Wednesday evening by members of the Xavier Literary and Dramatic Society. For two hours fortune favored enough to be present enjoyed sketches and stunts that were well prepared and given with a finish that would have done credit to far more experienced players.

An overture opened the program and as the second number Miss Mary Ramer and Martin Mellberry produced the skit "A Marital Mishap." Two love letters written for butler and maid reached husband and wife and the laughable complications which followed were well worked out by the "team."

Mrs. Harry Culp, Miss Ruth Hamilton, Miss Anna Schaerapka and Miss Jennie Althoff, listed as the "Four Rose Buds," sang several songs and "Mr. Xavier Himself" in Xaverian, another merry sketch in "Tangles." Mistaken identities in this number and the cast of six mixed matters most successfully. They were Miss Lucy Redding, Miss Maria King, Alban McSherry, William Abel, Edward Swisher, and Frank Hosack.

Charles Stock was greeted with appreciative applause in several popular songs and the program concluded with "Scenes from Famous Novels, Lanes and City Streets" by Miss Ella Ramer and Miss Grace Ramer whose songs and dances were received with favor in the hall and closed successfully the entertainment which will bear repetition before a much larger audience.

Citizens of East Berlin are Enthusiastic over Trolley.

Public spirited East Berlin citizens were out Saturday morning at a meeting held in the interests of the proposed trolley line from that place to Dillsburg and electrified stock amounting to nearly $15,000. Another meeting will be held next week at which time it is expected that the amount of stock subscribed by citizens will be doubled. It is planned to have an electric line from Gettysburg to Dillsburg by citizens of the borough, and then to make a canvass of the farmers and others living along the three proposed trolley lines, and decide on the most practicable route, and secure the most liberal inducements. Offers of free right of way, donations and encouraging promises for big blocks of stock have been made the civil engineers without solicitation.

PROMINENT MEN VISIT THE CAMP

General Wotherspoon, Assistant Secretary of War Breckenridge and Famous Arctic Explorer All here on Sunday.

Prominent among the visitors to Gettysburg on Sunday were Major General W. W. Wotherspoon, Assistant Secretary of War Henry Breckenridge, and Colonel David Legge Breland, Arctic explorer who was for the special purpose of visiting the site of the veterans' camp and inspecting the camp completed at this time.

Colonel Breland has been connected with the Regular Army since 1898, serving with distinction in several of the Indian campaigns and learning scars from wounds which he received on the fore and head during these wars. He achieved his greatest fame, however, in his Arctic explorations. In 1880 he was detailed for duty with the Hayes-Lockwood Exploring Expedition and for three years, 1881-1884, was under Lieutenant Greeley in exploring the interior of Grinnell Land and the northwest coast of Greenland. On May 8, 1882 the party reached the then highest point North. He was one of seven survivors rescued, after harrowing experiences, by Lieutenant Commander W. S. Schley.

General Breckenridge is well known to Gettysburgians through his connection with the big maneuver camp here in 1910. At that time he was a brigadier general and during the past year he has been advanced in rank. General Wotherspoon also served with distinction in the Indian campaigns. For several years he has been president of the Army War College at Washington.

Assistant Secretary of War Breckenridge was recently appointed by President Wilson. He is a former resident of Kentucky and this is his first position of prominence in public life.

With Major J. E. Normoyle and the other officers in charge of the arrangements here, all the details were gone over at the office on Baltimore Hill during the morning. The visiting officers were delighted with the progress made up to that time and with the prospect of having everything completed in ample time for the formal opening of the camp on the evening of Sunday, June 29.

Colonel Lewis Bittler and Colonel Lewis E. Beitler accompanied the party over the battle field and the camp site on Sunday and in the afternoon General Wotherspoon and party left by automobile for Washington, Colonel Bittler returning to Harrisburg shortly thereafter. While here all were registered at Hotel Gettysburg.

MANY STUDENTS WILL BE HERE

Satisfactory Responses from Colleges and Universities Indicate Large Attendance at Camp of Students here this Summer.

Very encouraging reports are being received by Captain Robert O. Van Horn, who has charge of organizing the experimental military camp at Gettysburg for the instruction of students during the summer vacations, commencing July 7 and continuing to August 18, in which not the limit of 2000 college boys has almost been reached.

The college presidents are not only taking up the suggestions of the Secretary of War, but are themselves making suggestions which will contribute much to the ambitiously success of the camp. Several colleges have decided to give credit for laboratory and shop work to the students who attend the encampment. Many college authorities are of the opinion that nowhere could the students get the valuable training at the camp that can be obtained in the camp under experienced officers.

A Boston friend of Harvard University has contributed $1,000 to pay the expenses of all the students who attend the Gettysburg encampment from that institution and many of the larger universities have made appropriations to pay the expenses of their representatives at the camp and all indications now point to a highly successful issue to the plans already made.

BEES ATTACK OWNER

Experience of Adams County Farmer Might Have Proved Fatal.

Had it not been for the prompt action of his wife, Harvey Eyster, of Biglerville, would have been killed by honey bees on his farm there on one day recently. He was a very sick man for a few days as a result of almost recovered from the effects of stings received.

Mr. Eyster had noticed one of his bees had swarmed and the little honey makers were settling on a tree near his limb. Without putting on a bee hat he proceeded to climb the tree and shook the ground with the intention of getting the bees to go into a hive he had deposited there for them. He came very angry and the entire swarm settled upon him. They lit on his head and shoulders. His wife heard him calling for help and came out with a broom and managed to brush off the bees but not before Mr. Eyster had received many stings on the face and neck. He became very ill for the bees belched in his throat so that he almost fully recovered from the painful experience.

VETERANS ARE DISSATISFIED

Rhode Island Men Claim their State Commission is Trying to Persuade them not to Come to Gettysburg. A Letter.

Grand Army men assert the Rhode Island Gettysburg Commission, which has charge of arrangements for the attendance of Civil War veterans from that State at the anniversary reunion here, is not doing its best in trying to discourage them from coming. The Commission as the State's guests.

They say it is their belief that the commission is not planning to spend the $7000 at its disposal for the old soldier's transportation wholly for the purpose intended. The plan, they assert, is to take as few veterans as possible and use a large part of the $7000 to meet the cost of the attendance of Governor Pothier and members of his staff.

Many letters, with postal cards, have been sent to the old soldiers throughout the State, the last of which arrive say, set forth the hardships of the railroad trip, and are intended to cause them to hesitate in deciding to go.

Adj. Gen. Charles W. Abbot Jr., when interviewed, said they were not for this purpose but that reports had been intended simply to inform the old soldiers of the conditions they must encounter if they attend. Regarding as the commission's representative at first declined to talk with any reporter, if the Governor and his staff attended, their expenses would be paid from the $7000. Later he stated voluntarily that such would not be the case.

The letters issued by the commissioner and signed by Gen. W. Abbot, Jr., Secretary, are as follows:

"Gettysburg is a small town with 300 more names of veterans have been received than the State appropriation will pay for the transportation. Realizing that perhaps many do not understand the situation fully, the commission must decide within a few days if we can pay this crowd.

"Are you going to Gettysburg?

"Then you understand that the appropriation will not pay for all those going and returning; that you will have to pay your own way to and from going and returning.

"Do you believe you must carry your own baggage to the camp, and you are to sleep in tents and live on army rations, prepared for you as soon as when you were in the army.

"If you do not believe these things on these reunions for at least four days, you should engage a room or go to a hotel if you are sick.

"Think it over, at once, and answer yourself, and your comrades, and the day you receive it, without fail.

"If any veteran is able to pay for transportation, accommodations, etc., and wants to, the commission will make arrangements for quarters in tents at Gettysburg."

COUNTY MEMORIAL DAYS

Memorial Day Observance in Biglerville and New Oxford.

Biglerville's Memorial Day pageant on Saturday was very largely attended. A parade was held and the unveiling of flowers took place in the cemetery where the monument to all Hendersville bands participated in the parade and an eloquent patriotic address was made by the Rev. C. W. Lloyd of New Oxford.

New Oxford's parade included Grand Army veterans, the Pleasant Hill Band, the Knights of Pythias, the Pythian band, New Oxford Drum Corps and the Fire Company. The New Oxford Fire Company and other organizations. A unique feature of the parade was the great number of Civil veterans. On account of the rain it was impossible to hold the exercises in the Lutheran church after the street parade. Rev. Lloyd spoke to the New Oxford cemeteries. Robert Bair, of York, made the address.

CHANCE FOR LOCAL HUSBAND HUNTERS

Missouri Veterans Want to be Shown what Gettysburg has in the Way of Marriageable Women. Will be here in July.

Four or five Missouri veterans, who expect to attend the anniversary celebration here in July, are looking for-ward with pleasure to the event which they expect to make, to kill two birds with one stone by attending the reunion and get a wife. They want to be shown what the town has in the line of valuable brides-to-be and Mrs. Mollie Lamar, a resident of St. James, Mo., has written Burgess J. A. Holtzworth as follows:

To His Honor, the Mayor.

Dear Sir: There are four or five of us old veterans of the Battle of Gettysburg in this country who will be in your city at the celebration and, if you have got a few good widows or old maids who would like to marry and go west, we can accommodate a few. They need good housekeepers and not too young.

Very sincerely,

No, the name of the wife-hunters cherished by the town has known by the curious public but Burgess Holtzworth will be asked to give them the names of all applicants for the position of unmalaried housekeeper.

Photographs will be forwarded, also, as at first declined to do but hoped, and Cupid will have four weaks in which to conduct operations in the interests of Uncle Sam's postal service.

MY WIFE'S BIRTHDAY

By CARL SARGENT CHASE

"My dear," I said to my wife, "next Thursday will be your birthday. You know how busy I am now with the fashioning of gifts for members of the family themselves, so you must have a birthday gift for you as well as me, and I must provide his as well as mine. Will you please relieve me of the responsibility by buying something for me, or give you the money for Bobby to give you?"

"I think we can dispense with my wife, for she is a frugal woman and would rather buy gifts for herself than that I should buy them for her, fearing that I would not select exactly to her mother. Besides, she has for some time provided the family gifts for birthdays and Christmas. However, there is one feature of the matter which needs careful attention. Our, Bobby, aged ten, is not taken into the secret. He is supposed to assume that we buy all the gifts for him and his mother.

On the anniversary, being very much engaged, after throwing the burden on my wife's shoulders, I did not even take the precaution to bve the usual consultation with her as to what I should procure for him for his mother's birthday. The day before the anniversary came round I suddenly remembered the matter, rushed into her and asked him what he would like to give. He preferred to buy his gifts out of his own money and, having as eye to business, suggested that I had better buy that nine-tenths of it would go into his own stomach. He gave me the money for the purchase, and when I was very informed his mother of his choice, telling her that a gift of a new basket he preferred for her, or, rather, for himself.

My wife left a box containing my gift for her in the hall, and the next was I that I never thought to look at it. The afternoon before the birthday we walked out together, and during the walk she bought a few odds and more and, finding a better article than she had expected to find for her money, bought it, carefully hoo-ruling me as to the expenditure of money. This was the change from his ar-ver.

That evening I took a look into my study, shut the door so it sk ins mother would not overhear me, and examined and showed him the sandy, explaining all the same time that it was a gift from bees mode. Unfortunately I told him that it was a gift from me, and he went through their said:

"Papa, I didn't suppose you would allow any one to make such a guy of you."

"What do you mean?" I asked, quite taken aback.

"To charge you 50 cents for half a pound of candy."

I explained also to explain the matter, I tried to get out of it by directing his attention to the picture of the bee, but the conversation my own present for his mother from which he had come to open it.

Then it suddenly occurred me that I was ignorant of the contents of that box. The conversation I It has evad me several times what it was.

"You shall see," I said. But the impellent Bob did not see, for there was a knot in the string that I found it which I found it difficult to untie, so I kept repeating, "You shall see my boy, what it is if you will only be patient!"

When I got the box at last delivered, the tie gift had been pocked in envelopes, and I was relieved to find it. This caused more delay, during which I had time to think what it was. It?" and I to reply "You shall see." But I was recovered after a few days. I pro-duced a little round glass receptacle perhaps three inches in the in the cover, I didn't know what it was. "Papa, what is that round thing for?" said, this time with a new meaning, for he had never seen the use of the kind before my present was hinted.

Here was a pretty predicament. I had bought a present for myself without knowing to what use it was to be put. I had to make an answer. I noticed it over, turned it upside down and took off the lid for the fire of me I could and make out for trust it was a Whitall's hermetically hermetic.

"Why, don't you know what that is, my boy? Why, it's one of the pots on her breast to hold powder, and this shows that she is to be the handle of the thing she puts the stuff on her face with. The little brush is used through the hole."

Bobby saw this I directed Bob's attention inside to his own present, and the rest of the evening I was absolved for him to take just one.

Then we went through the matter with this and even out which by the aid of my mother I went to bed another and said:

"For heaven's sake! Why didn't you tell me what was the gift you had bought for your self and what it was for?"

"I did, but you forgot."

"What is the thing anyway? I said Bob it was face powder."

"It's a bolt revriver!"

"Bobby, you're mistaken!"

"It's to put the hairs in that come out of a woman's head when she combs her hair."

"Do they go in at the hole in the top?"

"Of course!"

"Well, we've escaped this time, but don't you ever say any more presents to your mother without telling the story beforehand what they are to be used for."

School Board Decides Finally to Establish Course in Domestic Science. Special Instructor Chosen. Teachers are Re-Elected.

The establishment of a department of domestic science in the Gettysburg High School was determined upon Thursday evening at the regular June meeting of the School Board. All members voting in favor of the innovation.

Miss Helen C. Day, of Baltimore, was elected as teacher for the department at a salary of $65 a month. She will enter upon her duties with the opening of the school term in the fall. Miss Day has been teaching for some years in the schools of Baltimore county, Maryland, where her work was observed several weeks ago by a committee of Gettysburg women who went to Baltimore for that special purpose, and who were delighted with the conduct of her department.

Miss Day is a graduate of the Maryland State Normal School located at Mary D. B. Curry, teacher of the College School, did not apply for re-election. Miss Margaret Technology at Pittsburgh and is applied to teach cooking, sewing, housekeeping, millinery and other allied subjects. This course will be in addition to the special course at Columbia University. She is expected here in a week or two to consult with the School Directors as to the purchase of the necessary equipment for the department.

Miss Frances Fritchey, a member of the High School faculty, and Miss Mary D. B. Curry, teacher of the College School, did not apply for re-election. Miss Margaret Bell is also vacant and Miss Mary C. Braxton, of Hanover, resigned to accept the position made vacant by Miss Curry. Miss Braxton's salary will be $70 a month. The more prominent colored residents of Gettysburg. She will serve at a salary of $70 a month for the school year. If she proves satisfactory the salary will be increased to $75 a month, receiving $50 last year. The instructor-ship of manual training in the High School building, R. M. Elliott at the High School building, and Walter Carter at the Colored School. Mr. Kepner's pay is increased from $30 to $35 a month. Mr. Little's from $30 to $35, and Mr. Elliott's from $30 to $32.50. Walter Carter will continue to receive $25 a month.

The tax rate for this year will be the same as last, 7¼ mills general and 1 mill school. It was also reported that the amount due for tuition this year from surrounding townships for pupils sent here, and for individual non-residents, reached a total of $1102.25. For years ago the revenue from this source was less than $200. The increase this year requires quite a factor in meeting the expenses of the schools though the large number of children from other districts is tending to congest conditions in some of the rooms.

With the opening of the schools in the fall there will be a change in organization at the Meade building. The three rooms on the second floor taught by Miss Rummel, Miss Miller and Miss Benner are to be conducted after the department store—but is, in the same manner as the High School is now managed. Every room is to be equipped with single desks and will be used as an assembly room where the pupils of all three schools will gather. The other rooms will be used as class rooms in charge of the teachers. It is expected that the change will prove a great improvement over the present system where the three teachers have pupils of two grades in each of their schools.

A proposition of members of the Parent Teachers' Association to establish a course in music in the town schools has been accepted and a section to pay one-half of the teacher's salary and the school board the balance. No instructor has been chosen.

The request of Prof. Sanders to allow the use of the High School building next week for the Gettysburg Summer School was granted. The college buildings will be in use then and some place had to be secured for the opening week of the session.

MORE TROUBLE IN EMMITSBURG

Ex-Mayor Rowe now Accused of Refusing to Give up Borough Papers which he Has in his Possession.

Charging that he refuses to give up records and dockets of the municipality of Emmitsburg, of which he was once burgess, handwritten proceedings have been filed against Edward H. Rowe,the former burgess of the town.

The suit by Attorney Vincent Seisloff, of the town, on behalf of the burgess and commissioners. They charge that Mr. Rowe has in possession the ordinance book of the town, the minute book, the corporate seal and his docket as burgess. As burgess he has also all cases of violation of town ordinances and as there were appeals taken from his decisions, etc, the possession of this docket, as well as the ordinance book and the minutes mean much to the city.

It is stated that the new burgess John H. Matthews, who recently defeated Mr. Rowe, who has qualified as burgess, is practically helpless in his office without these records. It is charged in the petition that Mr. Rowe has repeatedly refused to deliver them, even making one or more of the books in question belong to him.

Judge Worthington gave Rowe until 10 days to file an answer, presumably a notice of the proceedings was served on or before June 3. The court will later set a date for a hearing in the case, unless Mr. Rowe, by his answer, agrees to surrender the books in question.

BATTLEFIELD FAKE CAUGHT

Old Theory about Equestrian Statue is Branded as without Foundation and Guides are Notified to Tell Story no More.

A popular supposition on battlefield matters and one which the guides have been notified to desist from telling the tourist and one of the favorite stories for the past quarter of a century is a talking visitor to Gettysburg has been told, when viewing the various equestrian statues, that when a horse stands with two feet raised in it indicates that the general in the saddle was killed here, that when one foot was raised the general was injured, and that when the horse stands on all its feet the rider escaped unharmed. All the statues on the Gettysburg battlefield bear out this idea and it is safe to say that one half the population of Gettysburg believed in it and that it is absolutely correct. On other battlefields the theory does not hold.

Recently, in order to establish definitely the question, Mr. John M. Bloomer, Jr., Clerk of the Battlefield, letter to Burgess Brother, of Philadelphia, who is a recognized author of the equestrian statues here--among them the recently completed Sedgwick monument. The letter was:

Dear Sir:--

Your communication received.

In reference to there being any significance given to the position of the equestrian statues--that is, as to the standing of the horse on different feet--you would state that it has no meaning. In other words it is a fad. Sculptors of the sculptor modelling the figure, as to what is the most unspirited position, as to the ideal.

Very truly yours,

Bloomer Brothers.

Some time ago members of the National Park Commission called their attention called to the habit of the battlefield guides telling the tourists about the statues and the significance of the horse's position. At that time they were cautioned and instructed that the story was incorrect and that they should cease telling it.

TOOK LONG SLIDE

W. M. Freight Car Breaks From Train near Thurmont.

A Western Maryland freight, eastward bound, figured in a peculiar accident near Thurmont Monday. It was loaded with dressed meat suddenly broke from the center of the train of more than 15 cars and rolled down the mountain-side near Harding Grove Gap, about two miles west of Thurmont.

The derailed car rolled for a distance of more than 200 feet and when it finally stopped, it was a complete wreck, with the contents, consisting of all kinds of dressed meats strewn along the mountain-side.

The place where the car was derailed is just east of the large steel viaduct, known as the "high bridge" on the Western Maryland. Crews from this portion of the railroad the tracks have been cleared of the wreck from the mountain-side and for a distance of several rods in the distance is piled a ground to 175 feet sheer at portions of the mountain the ground slopes downward gradually for a distance of about two or three hundred feet.

OIL ON STREET

Gas Company Re-Product being used on Chambersburg Street.

Residents of Chambersburg street, beyond the railroad, are now treated on a coating of one of the by-products of the local gas plant instead of using the torvia which has been employed for a good many years by citizens of town. Several small sections were tried with the new treatment and the experiment proved very satisfactory. The street sweeper of the Pugh & Bushman Company went down after the dirt raises so much dust that people were almost driven out of doors whenever it appears. The apparatus does much better than anything else just how much loose dirt is on the paved streets. Local people continue to sweep their stores and walks and place the sweepings on the streets, in spite of the fact that anyone doing so would be prosecuted if the customs continued.

NOT ONE ARREST

Record Breaking Memorial Day for Orderly Conduct.

For the first time in the memory of Gettysburg citizens the town celebrated Memorial Day without one arrest being made. The regular police force was doubled but there was not the slightest call for the force to do, except to cars for traffic and see that local ordinances were enforced.

PRESIDENT HAS NOT ACCEPTED

Mr. Wilson Invited to Gettysburg but Has not yet Accepted the Invitation. News Concerning Other Prominent People.

President Wilson has been invited to attend the Civil War Veterans' reunion celebration but has not yet accepted the invitation. This is authoritative. In a letter saying he arrange his appointments so as to make the Gettysburg trip possible, it is thought more probable that he will be here. Vice President Marshall has not yet received his invitation, either, and it is not stated whether or not he is to be present.

The matter of securing the attendance of the two men in which a town has not yet secured such prominence is entirely in the hands of the Governor's Committee of Pennsylvania, on Tuesday to a representative of The Times by Colonel Lewis E.Beitler, secretary to the Governor's Committee. The invitations to other prominent men connected with the work of the commission. Many of these, declared Colonel Beitler, will be made ready for approval before being sent out while the invitations to the President will be sent out as soon as the matter of securing the attendance of the two men is definitely settled.

Twenty-five thousand requests for free transportation had been received from the Grand Army of the Republic veterans last evening. Owing to the fact that June 1 came on a Sunday an extra day is given the old soldiers to make their requests and a record total, for the issuance of the original estimate, was reached. It is expected that the total will be over and have asked for free transportation will not come to Gettysburg for one reason or another.

TWO RUNS

Automobile and Motorcycle Runs through Gettysburg Friday.

Fifty two members of the Delaware County Automobile Club left Gettysburg for Scranton, Virginia Friday morning after spending the night here at the Eagle Hotel. The party was composed principally of Philadelphia business men.

J. H. Weeks, chairman of the Good Roads Commission of Pennsylvania, was a participant in the run and announced that State Highway Commissioner Johnson was co-operating in his forces toward putting the roads leading toward Gettysburg in good condition.

Friday five started in the motorcycle run from Baltimore to Hagerstown, through Gettysburg, on Friday. The start was made at 8 o'clock morning. All but a dozen were on time and reached there over the mountains without trouble and other misfortunes.

NINETEEN GET THEIR DIPLOMAS

High School Commencement Exercises on Thursday Evening were Largely attended and Much Enjoyed. Prize Awarded.

Thirteen girls and six boys received their High School diplomas Thursday evening at the graduation exercises in Brua Chapel, and one more class was added to the long and honorable list of those who have completed the course in the high school of Gettysburg of the town.

The chapel was prettily arranged with the class colors, motto board and pin especially prominent. The decorations included peonies, honeysuckle vines, palms and ferns. All of the graduates wore white dresses and pretty gowns of the young ladies added not a little to the effect of the whole scene presented on the stage of Brua Chapel.

The invocation was pronounced by Rev. J. Charles Gardner and the salutatory address was given by Miss Bina Miller who had as the subject of her oration "The Call of the Hour." Miss Miller referred at some length to the gift of the Scott plant, the fact that it is placed on a play ground, and urged the commissioners by the people of town, suggested that it be called "Kurtz Park." Claire Sowers told of "The Responsibilities of Social Being," and Emily McDonnell read her essay on "Ideals." Miss Ruth Bream captured the first prize offered by Gettysburg Chapter D. A. R. Two essays were sent in by a chorus composed of scholars and alumni of the high school and the prize for the future careers of class members was read in the form of prophecies. This feature was in charge of Carrie Millhaupt, Miss Miller who tactfully wove into the messages the reminiscences, likes and dislikes of the members of the class.

The address to the graduates by Dr. W. Rupert Mackey, of Lancaster, occupied the middle portion of the program. The address for a half hour on "Forces that Win" and outlined the qualities necessary for a successful life that was full and complete.

The presentations by Miss Minnie Mumper, president, and Arthur Hutchinson were fully as enjoyable as ever and delighted the audience. Humorous occurrences in the lives of the graduates, affairs of the heart, ambitions and hopes were all brought out in a running fashion. Among the "valedictory" presented was a baby buggy, talcum powder and mirror, a real baby, a doll, a pocket book, one, the a parrot, a dog, and a cat, one and bells, bottle of Mellin's Food, rattles, high hat, trousers, a checkered dress, skirt and a bomb. Other things made up a list with plenty of variety to provide a host of surprises.

The class prophecy by J. Milton Roth presented the diplomas; Mrs. Walter H. O'Neal the D. A. R. prizes and Rev. Charles E. Aldinger, association prizes. Emily McDonnell received $5 for the first D. A. R. prize; Helen Musselman a second prize of $3.00 and a set of Shakespeare. Valuable mention were awarded to Margaret Williams and Mae Belle Little. Louise Shenck received the alumni prize of $5 for the highest rank in school. Mae Belle Little the second prize of $1 for second honor. The class roll included Barbeshen, Frieda Grant Bushler, Esther Dittil Louise Mae Bolia Little the second prize of $1 for second honor. These were composed the honor roll, being the only members of the class having an average above 90. Prof. Burgoon awarded the

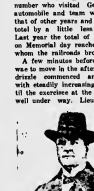
MEMORIAL DAY IN GETTYSBURG

Less than Half as Many People here this Year as Last. Showers Spoil Exercises. Congressman Heflin's Speech well Received.



CONGRESSMAN HEFLIN
Reosevelt's close chief marshal of the parade, with Wm. McG. Tawney, as aide. "Fighting" Bob presided over the Third Battalion Fifth United States Infantry, Major Lauengco commanding, which composed the first division. The Regulars marched in platoon front, and made an imposing appearance, adding much to the success of the parade. The East Lynn Band, with Captain Kraber and his York Cadets in their attractive uniforms, composed the second division, while the Sons of Veterans led the Grand Army veterans who were on foot and in automobiles.

At the appointed hour in the cemetery the Regular infantry halted, the Citizens band countermarched to the third division of the column and led the Grand Army men past the four companies of infantry all standing at "present arms."

The National Cemetery was never more beautiful than this Memorial Day. Over many of the several thousand graves fluttered a small United States flag; the trees, grass and flowers were at their best and, but after the strewing of the flowers by the children of all the schools in the town, the great semi-circle was more attractive than ever before. Following the strewing the Grand Army service, including three volleys by the York Cadet rifle squad, completed all of the day's observance except the program of oratory.

Congressman Brodbeck presided and, after the invocation by Rev. J. Charles Gardner and the reading of Lincoln's Gettysburg Address by Prof. Charles Anderson, announced the speaker of the day, Congressman J. Thomas Heflin, of Alabama.

Mr. Heflin had an ovation full of patriotism. He has a orator of eloquence and we frequently interrupted by general applause from a large audience, who, inspite of the rain, stood in the rain to hear him. His speech was considered by all well received as any which has been given from the band rostrum for some time and he was warmly thanked and congratulated by Grand Army veterans at the conclusion of the oration.

"Our colonial fathers from North, South and East and West," Mr. Heflin said, "fought together when they brought into republic into being, defended it together in the war of 1812, and triumphed together when they carried the stars and stripes into the heritage of the Montezumas. The final and crucial test of the republic's strength and durability was the conflict on the field of battle in the war between the states."

He added that the question of the right of the states to secede and the right of the union to prevent it, the status of rights and relationship between state and federal governments, "could not be determined in the councils of peace, it had to be settled by the arbitrament of the sword."

"The republic once abounding with conflicting opinions as to state and federal rights and powers," he continued, "by the blood in the common household of secession states, the home of a house divided, was purged. Here we bow with solemn reverence in honor of our nation's dead and pay to their heroic memory the tribute of our united love.

"Both northern and true representatives than those who made this battlefield immortal by the valor either in blue and the soldier in gray read in each other's eyes courage born of conviction and devotion to principle, a willingness to do and die for the duty believed to be due to God, Union and Confederate soldiers, by each, challenged the admiration of the world. Here Northern valor drew up in battle line the bravest of her brave, the noblest specimens of her manhood, and here the same conditions chivalry marshaled the noblest types of Southern manhood.

"Here the brave Union soldier checked the march of the hitherto irresistible Confederate hosts. Here in the red glare of destructive battle the Union mighty power was shown to one that the Union should be preserved and the nation that the nation should be ever mindful and considerate of the rights of the states. So the soldiers of the north and south united this soil with their blood did not die with the sword in their hands but of cementing the bonds of an everlasting Union.

"I bring to you a message of good will and fellowship from the people of the South. As an evidence of our recognition and appreciation of the valor and heroism of the Union and Confederate soldiers, and as a token of the spirit of fraternity which permeating the hearts of our people, I bring you these floral offerings to be flower gardens of Dixie, one for the grave of the soldier in blue and the other in the gray. They are typical of the gray. The sublime valor of the heroes of both armies will remain the heritage of all."

Of the reunion in July of survivors of the two armies at Gettysburg, Mr. Heflin said, "What a glorious reunion that will be. The sun will never smile upon that gathering and the God of peace will look down and approve it."

"Let the living join hands and hearts about a common center for the good of the Republic," he concluded. "Here, in Gettysburg, let us, in the language of Lincoln, resolve that this government shall not perish from the earth."

The two bouquets of flowers, were afterwards placed at the foot of the Lincoln monument in the National Cemetery and the orator, at the new Lincoln monument on West Confederate avenue.

DEFEATED DICKINSON

Gettysburg College Defeats Old Time Rival. Wrath is Appeased.

Dickinson went down to defeat before Gettysburg on Nixon Field Friday afternoon by the score of 5 to 4. The Carlisle team was never dangerous, although in the ninth inning when men were on second and third with no one out. The next batter fanned, the following batter struck out and the ought between third and home, and Dickinson's last chance went up in a Kuhlman. Hoar who pitched for Gettysburg was master of the situation. Several infamation was aroused when Goldstein, of Dickinson, who sought to steal second was declared out by umpire Carlisle last week, struck Baier fair in the face. Hand Dickinson was trying to steal second when the unprovoked assault occurred and he was quickly ruled out of the game.

NO FOREIGN FAKIRS

Foreign Fakirs Object to Heavy Fee and Leave Town.

Those who have been accustomed to watch affairs about Gettysburg town on Memorial Day acted this year that no foreign fakir was going to be seen. The usual small army of this class of vendorpeople appeared as usual, but refused to pay the fee fee prescribed by the recently enacted ordinance, and left town in a hurry. A number of local souvenir dealers paid the small annual license and report a fair business.

COLLEGE FOOT BALL SCHEDULE

Schedule for the Coming Season is Announced. Four Excursions Likely to be Run. Records have been Broken.

Manager Clyde Fasick of the college foot ball team has arranged the following schedule for next fall:

Sept. 29, Bloomsburg Normal, at home; Sept. 30, Susquehanna University at Philadelphia; Oct. 4, Albright, at home; Oct. 11, State College at State College; Oct. 18, Muhlenberg, at home; Oct. 25, open; Nov. 1, Dickinson, Carlisle; Nov. 8, Mt. St. Mary's, at home; Nov. 15, Bucknell, at Harrisburg; Nov. 22, Johns Hopkins, at Baltimore; Nov. 27, Franklin and Marshall, at Lancaster.

It will be noticed that the annual games with the University of Pennsylvania, Swarthmore, Dickinson, Mt. St. Mary's and Bucknell, appear on the list. In addition to these games athletic relations are resumed with Johns Hopkins, and Franklin and Marshall. Penn's Bloomsburg Normal and Albright appear for the first time. Ursinus is among the missing.

Steps are being taken to reduce the probability of a cancellation of the first game of the season to a minimum, by arranging a school team instead of an athletic association. It is important that this game be made certain, because it affords an opportunity to get a line on the material for the Penn game that comes the following Saturday.

Although not officially announced, it is quite probable that excursions will be run to Philadelphia for the U. of P. game, to Carlisle for the Dickinson game, to Baltimore for the Hopkins game, and to Harrisburg for the Bucknell game.

Prospects for a successful football season for Gettysburg next season are bright. This year will produce some valuable men, but a strong nucleus will remain. Next year, after half back of last year's undefeated Penn State team, will coach Gettysburg this year.

The following schedule has been announced for Reserves: Sept. 29, Williamson Trade School, at Media; Oct. 18, Bloomsburg Normal, at Mercersburg; Nov. 1, Dickinson Reserves, at Carlisle; Nov. 12, Navy Plebes, at Annapolis; Nov. 22, Yeagertown A. C., at Yeagertown.

PROBERS FIND NEW KIND OF LOBBY

Overman Says Its Object is to Mould Public Sentiment.

SUMMON FORMER SENATOR

Friends of President Wilson Are Sure Some Interesting Information Will Be Obtained.

Washington, June 6. The senate's lobbying investigation has already developed the futility of government bolstering increases of any commodity, according to Senator Overman, of the investigating committee.

"We have developed thoroughly the fact that there is practical and successful lobbying, he said. "It is not the personal appeal to senators, but the newer form of organized activity, to mould public sentiment and to bulldoze senators by means of public pressure from constituents.

"It is insidious to the extent that this publicity and organized campaign often partakes of misrepresentation and misinformation."

Mr. Overman added that he had some decided views on the question as to what he would recommend for the committee's report to the senate.

To the list of outside witnesses who will be questioned in full Saturday and next week of their activities in urging or opposing legislation, were added the names of C. J. Faulkner, former United States senator from West Virginia; Colin Livingstone, officer of a Washington bank; W. J. Struss, lumber of Clearmere, Pa., president of the Pittsburgh Pine Club company; Paul J. Clifstein, an employe of the Louisiana Sugar Refining company; Frank Stanton, and Arthur B. Hayes, of Washington.

Subpoenas have been served on the following witnesses:

George E. Gilliland, of Washington; Charles Hamilton, Washington; former Congressman Charles B. Landis, of Indiana; Robert Crain, Baltimore; Thomas G. Hayden, Washington, a leading figure in the fight of the best sugar interests against free sugar; and Frank C. Lowry, of New York, who conducted a one-man fight for the "committee of wholesale grocers," and is said to be the employe of the Federal Sugar Refining company.

Although Senator Overman, the chairman, would not admit that the committee was feeling aid from the White House, the opinion prevailed among the committee that some of the men summoned as witnesses have been suggested by President Wilson. Friends of the president are sure that some interesting information will be obtained from those summoned.

Senator Smith told the probers that he was not deeply interested in anything "systematically" affected by the tariff bill, but said he owned some farm lands and city real estate.

Senator Gore said that his West Virginia coal property brought him about $18,000 and all properties about $50,000 a year. No one had approached him on the tariff and he knew of no lobby influences in Washington.

Senator Gore had no interest affected. Several delegations and individuals had called on him including F. B. Hathaway and Henry T. Oxnard in regard to sugar.

Senator Sherman said his interest in the tariff was limited to farm products and only because he made farm loans. He knew of no lobby.

Senator Simmons owns 1,000 acres of cut-over timber land and only because he made farm loans.

Senator Shields said he raised live stock, sheep, grain and Angora goats, all affected by the tariff. He had not sought to influence any one and any lobbying methods had been used to affect his action on the tariff bill.

JAMES G. McREYNOLDS.

Attorney General Threatens Standard Oil Company.

M'REYNOLDS AFTER THE OIL TRUST

Attorney General May Institute New Suit.

Washington, June 6.—Attorney General McReynolds said that he regarded the New York Standard Oil decision as inadequate to meet the intent of the Sherman law.

This was the first definite indication of the attorney general's attitude toward an investigation conducted to determine whether an "oil trust" still existed.

This attorney general's objections to the decree, like those he has expressed before the anti-trust conference, are based on the ground that a real dissolution of the Standard Oil combination is not by a distribution at the stock pro rata among the stockholders.

From Charles B. Morrison and Oliver E. Paine, his special assistants, Mr. McReynolds has learned the results of their investigation of the oil situation, and is deliberating whether the department of justice will be justified in bringing a new suit under the Sherman law.

It would be wrong to conclude that a trust still exists, it is pointed out, but the attorney general is not willing to let it be taken it is believed it will be of a combination more powerful than ever.

Legislation to carry out Attorney General McReynolds' plan to levy an additional excise tax on the production of the Standard Oil combination in the event control of the field by the factors of the former combination, was introduced by Senator Hitchcock as an amendment to the tariff bill.

It would levy a heavy tax on many of these products producing more than 500 pounds of tobacco, or 4,000,000 pounds of such substances. Hitchcock estimated that the tax would affect the Standard Oil combination, but the three cigarette companies and two cigar companies.

It would be effective as soon as a manufacturer controlled approximately 25 per cent of the total production, and probably bring the government $15,000,000 a year.

Indianapolis, Ind., June 6.—Women be Indianapolis who wear the new silk underwear shirts, also must wear outer garments, and the traffic squad of the police force has been instructed to enforce the order, which was given out by Superintendent of Police Lawrence J. Hyland.

The order was issued after Superintendent Hyland had received a letter from a "Mother" which read as follows:

"As we know you are the highest authority in the city, we, as the ladies, have decided to prohibit the wearing of silk shirts without undergarments. We have had a meeting and decided to write you."

Superintendent Hyland said he first thought the letter was a practical joke, but asked the traffic squad to act as custodian of feminine wearing apparel.

CHINDA SEES THE PRESIDENT

Japanese Ambassador and Wife Discuss Land Scare.

NEGOTIATIONS ARE FRIENDLY

It Is Stated at the White House That No Basis of Settlement Has Been Brought Out.

Washington, June 6.—Japan carrying her plans to the White House in a friendly call yesterday, the Mikado's envoy to the United States, Viscount Chinda, with his wife, paid an informal visit to President Wilson and discussed the situation with him for nearly an hour.

The president had read the Japanese reply to the bills of the state of California legislature and the visit of Chinda was interpreted as one to clear misty landing at the departure of the Japanese ambassador. The ambassador's call at the White House was the first since the bills were dismissed.

Though not at all unprecedented the ambassador's call at the White House at this time was interpreted by the diplomatic corps as a step to get the negotiations over the California question in the open. It was positively stated at the White House that no basis of settlement of the issue has yet been brought out in either of the conversations that have constituted the diplomatic exchange thus far. It is also taken to be indicative that there is a most protracted un-

What settlement there can be between the two governments remains to be seen by the positive announcement of the California legislature that anti-alien landing proceedings against the California bills will be pressed. It is known as the Japanese demand is for the withdrawal of the measures, but for which it insists must be brought about by the federal government, the treaty of 1911 between the two countries is rendered even more difficult.

Unless the Tokio government retires from its position, which is to annex the California law, nothing is left for Japan to withdraw with honor except war.

Statements made at the White House lead to the assumption that the courtesies that Japan has made seem to have had the effect of changing the characterization of the forthcoming international conference.

The Japanese note will come up for discussion at the cabinet meeting today. It is expected that some progress will be made toward settlement of the issue of the reply to the communication.

HOW TO KEEP BABY WELL

Give the child as much cool water as he will take.

Keep the child in the open air today and tomorrow and every day that you can.

The clothing of the child should be light and loose.

Children should be bathed two or three times each day during hot weather.

Improper food, combined with intemperature, is the great destroyer of babies, reading 28 per cent of the deaths.

BOND UP LINE FOR MORGAN

Delay Ruling So New Jury May Go to Butler.

New York, June 6.—The attorneys in the Rose Franks case for three weeks and thirteen minutes to allow J. P. Morgan to get bail in the sum of $10,000. Assistant District Attorney Swann said that he was willing to let Morgan go on his own recognizance.

Justice Foster, however, refused to accept the unnecessary consideration of the supposition that Morgan would jump his bail, and ordered the bail bond to be made out.

Justice Foster has announced that he will not hand down his decision in the case of Rose Franks, charged with conspiracy to defraud Morgan, until the new jury has been selected. This will probably be done next week.

HATPINS AND U. S. FLAGS IN RIOTS

Hazleton Girls Still Wielding "Woman's Weapon."

Hazleton, Pa., June 6.—Girls employed at the silk mill factory of J. Gerhardt & Co. continued the use of weapons when approached by pickets of the United Mine Workers and other strikers in the strike over the company's plant.

In a clash at West Hazleton a number of pickets, among them some of the girl strikers, were arrested and sent to jail on fines to make these weapons of defense.

Miss Susie Peiter, a worker, was arrested on the charge of having driven a pin into a Polish pickets face. Miss Peiter was fined $5 and costs.

It is charged that pickets tried to prevent girls working in the silk mill cars. The strikers said police always use rubbers when they attempt to drive the workers.

The strikers carried American flags and had prepared to plant them in front of every car to stop the car when its cars workers were on board. The pickets declared that the American flag would not run down the Stars and Stripes, because many of the mine workers employes who are affiliated with the United Labor union, which has charge of the strike.

OPERATOR BLAMED

Held Responsible for the Wreck at Big Six Curve.

The jury of inquest investigating the cause of the wreck on the Western Maryland Railway last Wednesday evening, when two freight trains collided at Big Six Curve, killing Brakeman Charles E. Gulbe and seriously injuring 15 others, rendered a verdict Thursday afternoon that Operator George P. Hazy, at Pierre Manchester, was responsible for the wreck, in that he failed to issue orders to train No. 342, westbound, holdiar it to permit train No. 805, eastbound, to pass. Immediately after the wreck Operator Hazy called for prate unknown.

A number of witnesses, including Superintendent Berry and Chief Train Dispatcher Peters and train men on the wrecked trains, testified. Mount Mr. Berry stated that he had investigated the cause of the wreck and found that Operator Hazy had failed to deliver copy orders to train 71. "When he discovered his mistake," Mr. Berry said, "Hazy notified the dispatcher at Union Bridge that the wreck crew and waited for the engine we were hoping to have. We rendevered to get the Cobill engine and have the wreck crew and the train, but Mrs. Cobill said the train had gone by."

Chief Train Dispatcher Peters said he personally gave the orders to Hazy and signed them as a matter of evidence. The books show he received the orders and repeated them back correctly. When the operator reported train No. 342 by, he was reminded of the orders, but Hazy replied that he had forgot to stop the train.

UNIQUE MEMORIAL

Miss Berlie Berger, Well Known Hagerstown Bereaved.

At the commencement exercises in Irving College on Wednesday a request was presented from the class of 1910 that a memorial be created each year a bunch of flowers to the graduate who has shown the most wholesome influence on her fellow students during her college course.

It was explained that the class considered this the most fitting manner in which to honor the memory of Miss Bertie Berger, of Cumberland, Md., who was a member of the middle accident near her home last September.

When Miss Berger was graduated three years ago, Dr. Campbell, president of the college, placed her on the platform and presented to her a basket of flowers. Miss Berger, who by this act became recognition was due her for the fine influence she had wielded.
